* Hawaii, like all other states, pays substantial dues to the National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG) and the Conference of Western Attorney General (CWAG). It is expected that part of the dues will be returned to the states in the form of payment of travel expenses. Thus, the travel expense payments from NAAG and CWAG listed above are probably not gifts within the meaning of the appropriate section of the Hawaii Revised Statutes, since they are indirectly paid for with appropriated funds. They are nevertheless listed here. In addition, payments from a National Institutes of Health Grant may not be reportable on this form, but are also listed.

CERTIFICATION: I hereby certify that the above is a true, correct, and complete statement.
